About the Interim

The Nevada Legislature meets every other year (biennially) for a 120-day session to adopt a two-year budget and to enact new laws or revise existing laws. Following each session, there is a 20-month period between sessions referred to as the "interim." Interim committees are created by the Legislature to work on specific and often complex issues between sessions. Interim committees receive reports and public comment, debate public policy issues, and formulate recommendations for new legislation in the next legislative session.

Summary

The Joint Interim Standing Committee on Education (COE) is the successor of the Legislative Committee on Education (LCE). Assembly Bill 443 (2021) revised the interim committee structure of the Legislature by repealing numerous statutory committees, including the LCE, and creating new joint interim standing committees. The COE has jurisdiction over issues that fall under the purview of the Senate and Assembly standing Committees on Education from the preceding regular session of the Legislature. Meeting between the biennial sessions of the Legislature, the COE may evaluate, review, and comment upon issues related to education within Nevada and make recommendations to the Legislature concerning the manner in which public education may be improved.
